

CHAIM WILMOWSKY

P: 347-526-8709 E: chaimzushe@gmail.com W: www.booksy.club
LinkedIn: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/chaim-zushe-wilmowsky-205446b0/>
Github: <https://www.github.com/chaimzushe>

SKILLS

Ruby, Ruby on Rails, JavaScript, React, Redux, jQuery, SQL, Java, HTML5, CSS3, RSpec, Git, Flux, Talmudic

Law

RECENT PROJECTS

Lead Full-Stack Developer for Booksy.com (React/Redux, Rails 5, AWS)

live | github

Cloned the layout and style of the Etsy.com, using React components to model the HTML layout and CSS3 to recreate the styling. Achieved high accuracy.

- Created a cart where users can store items they want to purchase. Under the hood, the Add to Cart button dispatches an update request to Rails that in turn updates the Rail SQL database and associates the item with the Buyer. When the buyer wants to view his cart, a React component renders all items that are associated with this buyer.
- Implemented a search feature which filters out products based on a Search form input. I fashioned an asynchronous function that listens for real-time input in the search form and sends up to the Rail server an AJAX request with a query param of the search input. The server then responds with precise items matching the search request.

EDUCATION

AppAcademy

July 2017 - October 2017

- Rigorous 1000-hour immersive software development course with acceptance rate of < 3%. Topics covered include: TDD, scalability, algorithms, OOP, coding style, REST, security, single-page apps, and web development best practices.

Central Lubavitch Yeshiva, Brooklyn NY

September 2005 - November 2011

- Ordained as Rabbinic authority on Talmudic Law.

WORK HISTORY

Learning Coach for Professionals, Brooklyn, NY

November 2013 - June 2017

- Paired with lay individuals of beginning, intermediate, or advanced abilities, who led professional work lives and did not make time for Jewish study otherwise.
- Created a personalized learning schedule. Student chose subject matter, while I selected text and I tailored study methods.
- We met consistently, providing a fulfilling and challenging study regimen that enhanced the students' religious experience.

Sami Rohr Machon Shmuel Research Institute/ Research Fellow, Online

April 2014 - April 2015

- Assigned research on topics scattered all over the corpus of Talmudic law, concluding each project with an essay on the topic.
- Essays were published to Machonshmuel.com, available by subscription only to Chabad rabbis serving around the world.
- Topics originated with actual dilemmas in community life, the intersection of current events and Judaic law, or to aid a rabbi in preparation for a lecture.
- Research conclusions often covered material never before rendered in English, and at times uncovered innovative solutions.

Midtown Kolel/ Scholar in Residence, Midtown Manhattan,

December 2011 - December 2014

- Selected out of hundreds of applicants to be one of ten advanced scholars to study Talmud, Jewish Law, and Mysticism full-time in the synagogue located centrally on Fifth Avenue.
- Lectured for visitors and tourists and was often matched with the program's academic director for peer study.